Benjamin King and Herbert Browning

Meet The Folks . . .

Two well-known and well-liked employees at Tabardrey Plant in Haw River are Benjamin Harrison (Harry) King and Herbert (Chig) Browning, who have worked in the Weaving Department since January 4, 1930.

Mr. King was born March 12, 1889, in Orange County. He went to work at the Holt Granite Mills (now Cone Finishing Co., Granite Plant) in 1908, worked there until the mill shut down in 1913, did odd jobs such as cutting and selling wood and ice until 1915 when the Minneola Mill, Gibsonville, started up and went to work there until 1929. When the Tabardrey Mill started up in 1929 he came to work here as a spare hand in the Carding Department. A year later he went to work as a weaver and remained in that job for 20 years. His health would not permit him to continue weaving so he took a loom cleaner job in 1950 and was later made head loom cleaner, which is the job he now holds.

Harry is married to Myrtle Neese King who is employed in the Cloth Room and they have six children, one of whom, Edna McIntosh, also works in the Cloth Room. In Harry's younger days he played baseball for 25 years. He says he is too old to play now but still attends all the game and also likes to fish.

Mr. Browning was born March 6, 1906 in Hillsboro, he came to work at Tabardrey as a weaver and was later made a loom fixer. He is married to Mary Bason Browning; they don't have any children. In "Chig's" younger days, he played baseball but says he is too old to play now although he still likes it and attends all the games.

Sgt. Curtis Cockman Home On Furlough

Sgt. Curtis L. Cockman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cockman, is home on 25-day furlough from his post in New Mexico and will return on June 6.

Sgt. Cockman is with the Air Patrol, Kirtland Air Base. He has been in service for two and a half years and assigned to the New Mexico base since completing his basic training in Texas.

This is Sgt. Cockman's first cross-country trip in 16 months, and his second visit home since he volunteered.

Class Day Exercise At Prox. May 27

The ninth grade class of Proximity School will have their annual Class Day Exercise in the school auditorium on Wednesday, May 27, at 10:00 a.m. Harvey Watkins, president of the student council, will preside.

Ruthie Holder will conduct the devotional after which the boys' quartet will sing, "Our Alma Mater," and "I Would Be True."

Bunnie Marshall will give the salutatorian address, and Sue Denny will read the class poem. Vilma Komar will give the class history. Barbara Riddle will read the last will and testament of the class and Billy Matherly will give the prophecy.

Highlights of the class will be told by Jerry Owens and the valedictory address will be made by Vernara Hobbs.

James H. Botz, Jr., Joins Cone Mills Inc.

James H. Botz, Jr., joined the synthetic fabric merchandising department of Cone Mills Inc. on Monday, May 8. He will work in sales and fabric development as assistant to W. H. Dribben, assistant vice-president.

His previous connections in the textile field include: sales manager of men's wear fabrics for Sheraton Mills and Reeves Bros., Inc.; sales and fabric development for Deering-Millikin; and men's wear fabric sales and mill operation for Burlington Mills.

Plans Progressing For "Starlet Revue"

All arrangements have been made for the "Starlet Revue" sponsored by the Proximity Y's Men's Club. The revue will be held at the Proximity School auditorium June 5 and at Senior High School June 6.

The revue will consist of over 100 students in each show from the Felicia School of Dance. A full two-hour show will be in store for all who attend, and the attraction will feature much local talent from Proximity and White Oak.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Proximity Y's Men's Club or at the Felicia Studios, 222½ South Greene Street.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. P. R. Mangum of 1127 Parrish Street takes this opportunity to thank the office employees of Cone Mills Corporation for their remembrance in the recent death of her husband.

Commencement Plans Completed At Prox.

Dr. Kenneth Goodson, pastor of Wesley Memorial Methodist Church in High Point, will be the speaker for the Proximity Junior High School Commencement which will be held at the school Thursday, May 28, at 10:00 a.m. He will be introduced by Sue Denny.

The processional, "Pomp and Circumstance," will be played by the band under the direction of George Toenes. Harvey Watkins, president of the student council, will give greetings from the ninth grade class. The Glee Club, directed by Mrs. Eugene Hood with Saundra Way as accompanist, will sing several selections.

Gloria Gaulden will introduce Settle Graham, local attorney, who will present the Civitan Award. Mary Jane Sams will introduce John Clay, district service officer for Veteran's Commission, who will give the American Legion awards. Clarence N. Cone, vice president of Cone Mills Corporation, will give the Clarence Cone Awards. He will be introduced by Carolyn Canter.

The graduation certificates will be awarded by C. E. Rankin, principal. Paul Sams will say the farewell.

The benediction will be given by Rev. S. L. Riddle, pastor of the Revolution Baptist Church, after which the recessional will be played by the school band.

Commencement marshals are: Michael Clayton, Don Ray Hicks, Linda Myers, Ed Shelton, Naomi Stout and Saundra Way.

Cone Day Camp For Boys Opens June 30

The first period of Boys' Day Camp will begin on Monday, June 29. The Y truck will pick up the boys at either YMCA at 9:00 a.m. and carry them to Camp Herman.

At camp they will have daily devotion, crafts, swim, lunch, free period, fishing, hiking, riflery, archery and many other activities.

At the end of the day the boys will be returned to the Y by 5:00 p.m.

Fee for boys will be $2.50 for those who are dependents of Cone Mills employees and $5.00 for dependents whose parents do not work for Cone Mills, but are a member of a school club.

The quota for each period will be 30 boys, so get your application in early. Dates for other periods will be published later.

For further information, contact Wayne Cates at the Proximity YMCA.

Classes Being Held On Weight Control

The Greensboro Committee on Weight Control is sponsoring an educational series of four classes on losing weight for men and women at the Duke Power Company kitchen at 217 N. Elm Street.

To enroll in these classes a referral by your physician is necessary. The application blank may be obtained by seeing your physician or calling 2-4234.

The first meeting was held yesterday with Miss Evelyn M. Cox, assistant professor of home economics at Woman's College, teaching the class.

The second meeting will be held on May 28 and class instructor will be Mrs. Nancy B. Hawks.

The third class will be held on June 4 and the fourth meeting will be on June 11. All classes will be from 10:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Election in Pineville

Frank Ferguson, assistant overseer of Spinning, first shift, was elected to the Town Council of Pineville for his first term on Tuesday, May 5. He ran third in a field of ten. Four members and a mayor make up the council.

T. C. Robertson, loom fixer in the Weave Room, was re-elected to his fifth term on the council. Others on the council are Charles Yandell and L. S. Miller.

In the mayor's race, C. H. McCoy was re-elected. He defeated F. G. James, Card Room overseer.

Record Field Enters Cone Golf Tourney

One hundred and eleven golfers, the largest field in the history of the seven year tournament, qualified last week for the annual Cone Mills Golf Tournament. Carlton Freeman, the left-handed ace from Revolution, was medalist with a two-under-par 70. The defending champion, Arthur Rollins, who is in the upper bracket with Freeman, qualified with a 76.

The losers of the first round matches in the championship flight will make up the first flight, giving the tournament seven flights in addition to the championship. One round will be completed each week until the champions are determined.

Legion Post Plans For Memorial Day Service

Cone Post 386, American Legion, will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Legion Hall and plans will be made concerning the annual Memorial Day Service held each year at the Veterans' Plot at Forest Lawn Cemetery. H. W. Shores, commander, will preside.

Memorial Day services will begin at 4:00 p.m. Sunday, May 31. Cone Post 386 will participate and the Cone Post firing squad will give the rifle salute.

The members of the Cone post attend one of the local churches as a group on Memorial Day and at this meeting the group will also decide which church they will attend this Sunday.

At its last meeting the Cone post voted to pay for the lunches this Sunday of the volunteer workers at the Cerebral Palsy School now being built.

Public Invited To See Free Motion Pictures

Educational, industrial and scenic pictorial films will again be shown this year at the Proximity Y on Tuesday nights and at the White Oak Y on Thursday nights. There will be no admission charge to see these films.

Dates and name of films are:

May 26—"Pioneer of Progress," "Flight to the Future," "Starring in Style."

June 2—"From Every Mountainside," "Opportunity U.S.A."

June 9—"You Can Take It With You."

June 16—"Mark of 'C'," "Pacific Islands of WWII."

June 23—"Nickel Plate Story," "Du Pont Story," "What Makes Us Tick."

June 30—"Bright Future," "New Paul Bunyan"

July 7—"Sugar, U.S.A.," "Word of Honor."

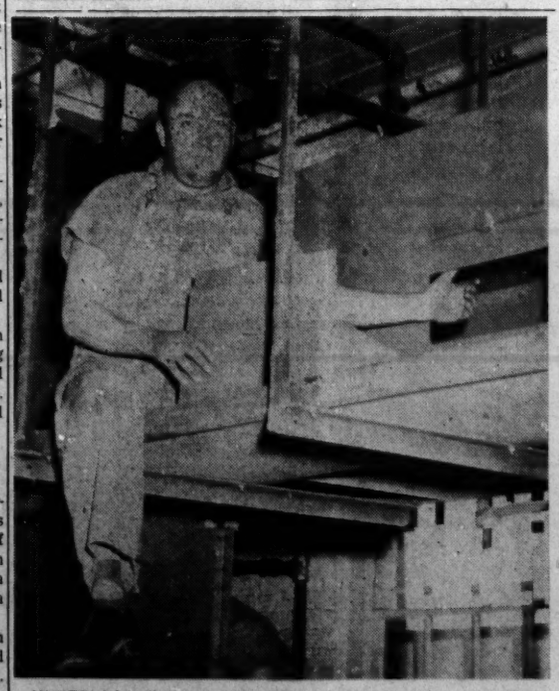
July 14—"Day In Court." "Magazine Magic."

July 21—"And Then There Were Four," "Constant Challenge."

July 28—"This Is Life."

To Have Joint Meeting

The Proximity Y's Men's Club will have a joint meeting with the Central Y's Men's Club next Thursday, May 28, at the Guilford Dairy Clubhouse. This is the first of several scheduled joint meetings planned with various clubs in the Piedmont District.



WHITE OAK SUGGESTION—David Haithcock, White Oak Plant Card Room employee, second shift, suggested that a scaffold be installed at the new pickers, which will make it easier to get to them in case of repair and reduce the accident hazard of working on them. Mr. Haithcock received a cash award from Cone Mills Corporation for his idea.

Singing Convention To Be Held Tomorrow

Plans have been completed for the state-wide Gospel Song Festival, sponsored by the Piedmont Singing Convention, to be held tomorrow night at 8:00 at the Greensboro Memorial Stadium.

This event will feature the best in gospel music and singing with the nationally famous Blue Ridge Quartet, Stamps Melody Four, The Sunshine Singers, Davis Trio, Gospel Quartet, Friendly Four, Stamps Ambassadors, Masters Four and many other groups.

Gates will open at 6:30 p.m., so make your plans to attend. Bob Loman is director.

Cone Team To Play In City Softball League

Cone YMCA will be represented in the Women's City Softball League which begins play May 26. All games will be held on Monday and Thursday nights at the Lindley Park Field off Market Street.

Others teams entered are Jefferson Standard, Moose Lodge and Mock Judson.

Cabins Still Available At Camp Herman

Reservations for Camp Herman are coming in fast and vacation week is already filled, states Dale Roberts, camp director. The other periods have started to fill, but there is yet plenty of space.

A special invitation is extended to employees of Reidsville, Gibsonville, Hillsboro, Haw River, Pineville, Salisbury, and Randleman to attend camp this year.

This year the camp will also have a completely new staff. Reservations may be sent to Dale Roberts, Cone Memorial YMCA, Greensboro, N. C.

For local employees, cards and information will be placed in the personnel offices.

Some of the campers who have signed up for this week are: Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, Hillsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Trogdon, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Starling.

Switchboard Work Calls For Alertness, Courtesy

No employees have the opportunity to say the name of the company as often as the three switchboard operators in the main office who answer, "Cone Mills," approximately 2,000 times each day.

WINNER—Ray Tugman, of 1207 12th Street, is shown above with his male Pomeranian, "Saucy Sonny," which won three points in the 23rd all-breed Dog Show at the Greensboro Tobacco Warehouse last Saturday. "Saucy Sonny" now has a total of nine points towards his championship. It takes 15 points for a dog to become a champion, which requires two major shows under two separate judges. "Saucy Sonny" has won 15 ribbons in five all-breed shows. Mr. and Mrs. Tugman are both members of the North Greensboro Kennel Club.

Theirs is not a lazy man's job, far from it. With two operators on at a time, their four eyes must constantly watch the red and green lights on the two switchboard panels for local or long distance calls coming in every second. Switchboard operators also serve more or less as receptionists to visitors since they work in the main lobby.

Keeping up with the lights and plugging in 60 jacks, as those tube-like plugs are called, and opening and closing the keys so that outside calls may be heard, requires constant alertness which must at all times be accompanied by courtesy.

Courtesy, yes, in spite of the many petty disturbances with which telephone switchboard operators everywhere are inflicted by the unthinking and prankster.

One of the leading gags they get is after they have politely said, "Cone Mills." Then some character says, "Did you say corn meal?"

Then comes the uninformed soul who wants to know "Is that line still busy?" never saying which of the 400 lines he means.

Calls coming in from the outside have been known to be like, "How did I get you? I was calling the White Oak Weave Room."

Many, never realizing that the switchboard girls are not the all-seeing eye or the odd jobs department, want to know how long a busy line is going to stay busy.

One called in the other day and said, "Tell Joe I'm down in my back and won't be in today."

Then there was the lady who during income tax time called to ask if the switchboard would mail her husband's withholding tax slip to her.

Another pet peeve of the operators are the ones who place long distance calls and immediately leave their telephones.

Cone Fabrics Facts

CONE SUEDE TYPE CLOTH
Bison Prints — Opossum Cloth

COTTON SUEDE-TYPE CLOTH: A soft napped fabric. It is specially processed after napping to give a felted suede-like appearance and feel to the cloth.

What Cone Mills has done with cotton suede-type cloths is a good example of the contribution Cone has made to the entire utility fabric field.

For years, cotton suede was a work shirt fabric, pure and simple. Its chief advantage was warmth. Then Cone Mills added the indispensable ingredient—STYLE—and the new Bison Prints were born.

At the same time, through extensive textile research, Cone Mills improved every other aspect of cotton suede cloth to produce a fabric that gives the consumer lasting satisfaction. The finest available colors of their type are used . . . the cloth is processed and finished to keep its "clothy" feel after many, many washings. Superior hand is built in, step by step, during each manufacturing stage.

Cone Bison Prints are used in sports shirts and robes for the whole family. Because of the many handsome patterns in this fabric, a new use has taken hold in play fashions. This calls for lining dungarees with a Bison Print to match the sports shirt. The dungarees are then worn with the cuff turned up to display several inches of colorful matching lining. Caps in the same patterns are also being made to carry through the costume effect.

For those who want the same outstanding fabric in solid colors, Cone Mills makes Opossum Cloth, an ideal companion fabric. Both Bison Prints and Opossum Cloth are Sanforized.

How Profits Benefit Workers

In 1914 a workman made $1.85 a day. Investors had provided him with tools worth $3500 per workman.

These days a workman makes $10.90 a day because he has tools worth $8380 to help him.

His higher earnings result from the better tools he has available. The better tools were paid for largely out of the profits company have made and have ploughed back into the business.

Profits are the best protection and assurance a workman can have of better and better wages—if he uses efficiently the machines which profits buy. That labor leader knew what he was talking about when he said, "The worst crime against working people is a company which fails to operate at a profit."

Without Using Such Methods

The political sniping that is taking place is not unexpected. Here in this free country we have considered it entirely proper, in good order, and typically American to gripe and jeer as is picturesquely demonstrated in America's favorite pastime—baseball.

Sharing honors with baseball is the game of politics. If we had our way we would not change that American characteristic. On the other hand, we are going through a critical period. With that in mind, we admonish against using our prerogatives too freely. There is so much to be accomplished by our government that we should restrain ourselves to some extent when programs which are essential are at stake.

The international situation is of paramount importance. The objectives sought by our administration are, we are quite sure, the same objectives that would be sought by any intelligent and sincere administration regardless of party label. There are many touch and go crises which have developed and will develop. Level thinking and a far range perspective are vital to a satisfactory final outcome. Because of that it is important that we be tolerant and patient until such time as it is demonstrated that the administration is failing or that it is determined that other procedures would serve best.

This administration has also dedicated itself to economy and efficiency. This type of program has been adopted at the insistence of the citizenship of this country. The tax burden and the general recognition of waste in government were important factors in the last national election. In the administration's efforts to cut out waste and inefficiency, to balance the budget, and finally, to reduce taxes, certain developments which would not be pleasing to all people were to be expected. Here again we urge patience and tolerance. Even those who find themselves at a disadvantage because of this program should develop a proper perspective, for the economic stability and soundness of this program to the general citizenship is more important than partisan politics.

We realize that it is difficult for people who have lost their jobs with the government because of the program of economy not to be critical. On the other hand, the economies must be effected and we do not feel that the sincere, honest efforts in that direction should be used as political fuel to undermine the present administration. True statesmen can play their politics without using such methods.

LISTEN AMERICANS!

...by George S. Benson

President of Harding College

WASHINGTON—Senator Robert A. Taft has been drafted onto the Eisenhower governmental "team" and is rapidly becoming the President's greatest asset in establishing the new administration and getting it over its first big hurdles. This was evident as I visited with Senator Taft in his office on Capitol Hill.

What did the Senator consider to be the most important message from Washington that I could carry to the American people through the column, the Harding College Monthly Letter, the radio program and other media of our National Education Program?

"An appeal for patience," he said. Then, with hard-hitting logic he backed the President on the widely debated question of whether tax cuts or a balanced budget should come first. "The important thing," he said, "is to reduce expenses, and I believe the administration is going about this job with enthusiasm and good faith."

There could be no permanent gain toward fiscal soundness in Washington, Senator Taft contends, if taxes were cut and yet the national debt mounted as a result of an unbalanced budget.

"The Republicans never promised any reduction in taxes in 1953," he reminded me. "After I conferred with General Eisenhower in New York early in the campaign, my statement promised a balanced budget in 1953, and further reductions of $10 billion in expenditures to a $60-billion budget in the fiscal year of 1955. I stated that I thought a tax reduction could be given in the beginning of 1954 for the ensuing year, a substantial tax reduction of about 13 per cent. This is still my guess, although I hope there might be a still further reduction of expenditures."

It is my opinion that once the Eisenhower team has "learned the ropes" in the various agencies and departments, Senator Taft's will be one of the most powerful voices in Washington for whittling the federal government down to proper size. But it will take time, he cautions. That's why he feels an appeal to the taxpayers for patience is so important. "A year or so from now," he said, "the people may expect to see the tangible results of our program, and I predict that the administration will make real progress."

Let us all hope the promise is fulfilled.

Pythian Echoes

by R. Cole Lee

Pythian elimination "Speaking Contest" is to be held this Friday, May 22, at Winston-Salem at the YWCA. The winner will be sent to Lakeland, Florida, for the sectional elimination contest to be held July 4. Contestants will be from Greensboro, Winston-Salem and North Wilkesboro. At Friday's contest, a dutch supper will be served to all attending.

Pythian W. B. Burke took to the air to attend the Grand Lodge of the State of Arkansas which is being held at Little Rock. The Grand Lodge of the State of North Carolina will be held June 9 at the Sir Raleigh Hotel.

The attendance last Monday evening was better and I wonder why. Could it be that there was no ball game in town?

Pythian Jim Frazier is a patient in room 31 at St. Leo's Hospital. Fellows, should you get the opportunity, Jim would be mighty proud to see you.

Invitations from the graduating students of the Pythian Home from the Clayton High School were received and the Lodge in turn, as is the custom, sent each a monetary gift.

It was announced that something like $304.50 had been raised by the local membership toward the furnace disaster which recently occurred at the Pythian Home. It is understood also that other Lodges throughout the state have contributed generously in erasing the total cost for replacement.

The question of last Monday evening was what was the matter with Pythian Allen Webster? Could it have been that he was not feeling well or was it just one of those blue Mondays with him. His quietness was very noticeable since he is continually pulling off some witticism. Pythian Allen is a good fellow to have around when the meetings seem to lag for just at that moment he pulls off a "good one." He is another one of those dependable and faithful members. Regardless of what is to be done, Pythian Allen is on hand to lend a helping hand and in many incidents he does more than his share.

To Pythian Allen Webster I include the following lines with the hope that everyone who reads them might resolve to scatter something worthwhile instead of the weeds of unkindness and ugliness.

Wouldn't this old world be better
If the folks we meet would say,
"I konw something good about you,"
And then, treat us just that way?

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy
If each handclasp, warm and true,
Carried with it this assurance
"I know something good about you?"

Wouldn't life be lots more happy,
If we praised the good we see?
For there's such a lot of goodness
In the worst of you and me.

Wouldn't it be nice to practice
That fine way of thinking, too?
You know something good about me,
I know something good about you.

City Schools Set To Re-distribute Pupils Next School Year

Superintendent B. L. Smith of the Greensboro City Schools has met with the principals of schools affected and instructed them with respect to the re-distribution of pupils for next year's school term, in accordance with the action of the Board of Trustees of the Greensboro City Administrative Unit.

Pupils out Battleground Avenue, west of the A. & Y. Railway, who have been attending the Central School, will next year be enrolled at the Brooks School.

Pupils on Pinecroft Road and living in the Ardmore section will next year enroll at the Hunter School.

Next year's fifth and sixth grade pupils in the Smith Homes Housing Development, and all elementary pupils east of Freeman Mill Road will next year be transported to the Central School. The former have this year been at McIver School, and the latter at Peck School.

Lawndale Extension pupils will continue to go to the Central School.

Only junior high school pupils residing west of Aycock Street and North of Florida Street can be accommodated at the Lindley Junior High School next year. Other pupils now enrolled in the sixth grade of the Peck School will be cared for at the Central School during the coming year.

Fourth and fifth grade pupils who have this year been attending the Jonesboro School and live in the Morningside Homes, will next year be accommodated at the Washington School.

No changes will be made prior to the end of this school year. Notice of transfer will be placed in the report cards at the close of the school term.

Ceasar Cone School News

Miss Lunette Barber visited the school recently, and gave a very interesting talk to all the children on conservation and wild life.

The Citizenship Club in Mrs. Davis' third and fouth grades met Friday afternoon. The president, Everett Mills, presided. Mike Kinney and Carolyn Cole were elected as the best citizens of the week. The following helpers were elected to serve this week: Jerry Beal, Carolyn Cole, Joyce Woodell, Frankie Sue Poe, Michael Brewer and Marion Smith.

The club enjoyed music stories and poems given by Gerald Crum, Mike Kinney, Joyce Woodell, Frankie Sue Poe, Jerry McClean, Richard Southern, Paula Morphis, Jerry Beal, Roger Pinson and Joseph Sams.

Ceasar Cone School held its May Day recently with Patricia Davis as the queen; Johnny Gurkin, king, Juana Johnson, maid of honor; Mike Murphy, crown-bearer, and Carl Pegram, bubble blower. The theme of the May Day was "The Rainbow."

The boys' choir from Ceasar Cone School went to Charlotte to sing April 29. The choir is composed of the following boys: James Busy, Jerry Coffey, Bruce Fitchett, Jimmy Oldham, and Kenneth Ritter. Mrs. Marsh and Mrs. Bachtell accompanied the boys.

The boys and girls in Mrs. Lineberry's fifth grade enjoyed an outdoor art lesson with Miss Beal last Thursday. The children made interesting sketches of the White Oak Plant, a water tank, a church, and homes with their beautiful flowers and trees. The business section of White Oak was also sketched by several children. Tony Clayton's picture was voted to be the best and is hanging in the hall.

Jerry Coffey, a member of the boys' choir, will sing with the choir for the Civitan Club next week.

Becky Craven has read more library books this year than any other boy or girl. She has read 91 books. The class is thoroughly enjoying "The Bag of Fire." The children dramatize the stories and plan their sound effects.

These people from Miss Heffner's fifth grade have been neither absent nor tardy this year: Daisy Amick, Kilgo Levy, Wayne Michael, Julia Rouse, Jimmy Oldham, and Velma Leonard The class is glad to have Donnie Johnson back in school. He was absent for two weeks after having his tonsils removed.

Great Moments in Golf

When Julius Boros plays against the American public on National Golf Day, May 23, it will provide one of the most unusual great moments in golf. Last year more than 80,000 entrants, paying a dollar apiece, competed against Ben Hogan to help the U.S.O. and the National Golf Fund, Inc. This May 23, it is believed that even more golfers, using handicaps on local courses, will oppose Boros, the United States Open champion, for a chance at a National Golf Day medal which says "I Beat the U. S. Open Champion, Julius Boros."

National Golf Day recalls the panorama of other great moments in golf. One was when Francis Ouimet in 1913, at the age of 20, defeated Harry Vardon and Ted Ray in the play-off for the U. S. Open title at Brookline. Ouimet had been a former caddie at Brookline. his victory is given major credit for popularizing golf in the United States. Formerly golf had been considered a rich man's game; now probably 6,000,000 Americans play it, or at it.

Another great moment was in 1919, when Walter Hagen defeated Mike Brady in the open -play-off at Braeburn. Walter asked Brady to come out of the clubhouse to see him make the winning putt on the last hole of the regular event. Hagen missed but won the play-off. He said something about not thinking that he would ever sink the putt, but that he wanted to put Brady on the defensive for the play-off.

In 1923, at Inwood, Bobby Jones won the first of his thirteen national titles, four of them in the U. S. Open. Jones defeated Bobby Cruickshank in the play-off for the U. S. Open at Inwood, and it was in 1930 that Jones achieved his Grand Slam—the U. S. and British Opens and the U. S. and British Amateurs . . .

Gene Sarazen's finish in the 1932 Open is considered the most brilliant of all time. He played the last 28 holes in 100 strokes at Fresh Meadow. Sarazen's double eagle—2 on a par 5 hole—at Augusta, Ga., was accomplished in 1935 at the Masters. Gene sank a no. 4 wood shot at 220 yards. It was in 1948 that Ben Hogan set the U. S. Open record at Riviera with a 276.

The longest U. S. Open play-off was at Inverness in Toledo when Billy Burke and George Von Elm tied at the end of the regulation 72 holes. They tied again for the next 36 holes, and Burke won out by a single stroke in the next 36. They went 144 holes in all.

Other great moments . . . Bobby Jones competing in his first national amateur in 1916 when he was only 14 . . . and he lasted three rounds at that . . . Jack Westland, at 47, becoming the oldest player ever to win the U. S. Amateur . . . he did it last year and then was elected to Congress . . . Glenna Collett winning six U. S. women's titles . . .

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Byrd and son, Tony, visited Mr. Byrd's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Byrd in Orange County Sunday.

On Saturday evening, May 9, the Willing Workers Class of the Haw River Baptist Church honored their mothers with a Mother's Day supper at the home of Mrs. Sallie Lloyd. Mrs. Katherine Thompson was in charge of the program.

Mrs. C. A. Caldwell returned thanks. Mrs. Josephine Cox gave the welcome to the mothers. A "letter for daughter" was read by Mrs. Charlotte Smith. Mrs. Katherine Thompson and Mrs. Loven Brauhn sang "Mother's Prayers." A poem, "A Mother's Prayer," was read by Miss Jessie May Harvey, and the thought for the day was given by Mrs Katherine Thompson.

The class members are as follows: Miss Lena Alexander, Jessie Mae Harvey, Mrs. Gladys Johnson, Mrs. Charlotte Smith,, Mrs. Sally Farror, Mrs. Ethel Neese, Mrs. Ruth Isley, Mrs. Pauline Marks, Mrs. Florrie Mullis, Mrs. Alene Blackwood, Mrs. Kawanua Cooper, Mrs. Lala Freshwater, Mrs. Ruth Woods, Mrs. Lila Harder, Mrs. Josephine Cox, Mrs. Annie Cole, Mrs. Hazel Holt, Mrs. Katherine Thompson.

DOGS by Tom Farley

Breed History

One of the most interesting studies for dog lovers is the history of the various breeds. How they began, where they came from, for what purpose they were bred—all make fascinating and, at times, exciting reading.

For instance, disaster played a large part in introducing the Pekingese and the Chesapeake Bay Retriever to the general public.

In ancient China the Pekingese was considered sacred. The oldest strains of the breed, which is believed to have been started in about the eighth century, were owned only by the Imperial family. They were guarded as carefully as the crown jewels and the theft of one of these prized dogs meant death by torture. Naturally, the breed was unknown outside of China.

This state of sacred isolation continued until the British looted the Imperial Palace at Peking in 1860. The soldiers found the bodies of dead Pekingese scattered throughout the palace, apparently killed by the Chinese so that they wouldn't fall into "unclean" hands. Four of the little dogs were found alive but frightened, hiding behind the draperies in the quarters of the Chinese Emperor's aunt. They were taken back to England, and one was presented to Queen Victoria. The other three were kept and bred by Lord Hay and the Duke of Richmond to produce the first of the breed on Occidental soil.

The Chesapeake Bay Retriever, the only native American sporting dog, owes his existence as a separate breed to a shipwreck. In 1807 an English brig was wrecked off the coast of Maryland. Its crew and two Newfoundland puppies were rescued by American sailors. Upon landing the British sailors presented the two dogs to several kind inhabitants who befriended them.

These dogs soon earned fame for their ability as retrievers and it is believed that the Chesapeake Bay breed was produced when they were bred to either the flat or curly-coated retrievers which had been brought over from Europe.

Anyway, by 1885 a definite type of dog was developed and the breed soon became known throughout the world for their feats in the rough waters of Chesapeake Bay where they often retrieved up to 300 ducks in one day.

The Bloodhound, too, has a dramatic history. First mentioned by the Roman scholar "Aelian," who praised his wonderful scenting and hunting powers in the third century, he has stalked his quarry under hot Mediteranean suns, stood with the Crusaders before the walls of Jerusalem, and retreated through the snowy wastes of Russia with Napleon's defeated army. He has been the pet of both the high and low, he is known to have roamed with gypsies and to have ridden with bishops.

In fact, the Bloodhound has appeared in so many places that it is hard to state where the breed began. However, it is generally conceded that it reached its modern form in England but has attained its greatest state of development in the United States.

One of the most docile of hunting dogs, the Bloodhound trails primarily for sport. He will not attack his quarry unless he is especially trained to do so. But he follows a trail to its termination so accurately that the breed is the only one whose evidence is generally accepted in court.

In the United States the Bloodhound is as famous as Dick Tracy for tracking criminals. One dog was credited with more than 600 convictions. The most famous of all Bloodhounds, called Nick Carter, is recorded as having picked up a trail almost five days old and followed it to a subsequent conviction.

Famed, also, for the great distances they will travel, dogs of this breed have followed trails up to 150 miles.

PROOF—Danny Lee Blackwood of Haw River had a successful fishing trip a couple of weeks ago and here is proof of his catch. Danny Lee is the delivery boy for The Textorian in Haw River.

Engineering Offers Youth Opportunities

Demand for trained technologists increasing; field offers wide variety of interesting work, job satisfaction, limitless opportunities.

Why are more and more parents guiding their youngsters toward successful careers in the engineering profession? There are good reasons.

This June some 23,000 young men and women step out of engineering and scientific colleges throughout the U. S. into positions that pay higher than average starting salaries.

Largely because of sound parental advice and educational guidance as early as the grade years, these young, alert engineering graduates will have a headstart on other young people of equally good intelligence in a profession that has become one of the most important and critical in America today.

What future awaits these 23,000 young men and women engineers?

For one thing they will be employed immediately after graduation: Most of them have already been sought out by industry, business and government to fill the nation's fast-growing technical demands. In industry and civilian-government activities alone the current need for engineers is estimated at 35,000. Long range needs in all phases of the economy demand many more. Both men and women graduates will be going into a profession that offers excellent opportunities for advancement. The nation's growing dependence on technology and the dawn of the atomic age point to a need for engineers for years to come.

They have limitless opportunities:

Young engineers are sought after today at higher than average starting salaries. Throughout their careers they are assured of good income. No field of endeavor holds more opportunity for individual advancement and there is no limit to what they may make at top levels in their profession.

They will be doing interesting work:

Today's engineers are working in all phases of the economy. They constantly work to improve modern business and modern living. June's engineering graduates will join other engineers working on rocket design and television operation; business management and city planning, fabric control and food processing and production.

Some may build bridges. Many will become salesmen selling today's intricate machines, services and processes to manufacturer and consumer alike.

They will be doing useful work:

Engineers are serving mankind in every field. The food, clothing, shelter, transportation, communications, heat and light made and used in this country are only some of the things which engineers help to produce. The graduates who go out into industry, business and government in June will be working for progress, for peace and for the defense of the American way of life. They will be the "maintenance men of civilization."

More than any other group, these young people with specialized professional training offer something modern industry wants and needs.

Engineering is open to those who start preparing for it long before entering college. Certain high school subjects are required to qualify for engineering training. These subjects—including mathematics and the sciences—are not only essential to the prospective engineer but, moreover, they are useful in all professions.

For youngsters who want to be engineers there are aptitude tests to determine ability. For many who qualify, there are scholarships provided by industry at leading engineering colleges throughout the country.

A marketable ability is the only true security.

SWITCHBOARD WORK

People who deafen their ear drums are definitely on the black list, and so are those who talk so low that they have to strain their auditory nerves to hear.

Another thing which rubs them the wrong way is people's hanging up the receiver before they have an opportunity to answer.

Leaning over the switchboard desk and blowing smoke in the oerators' faces may be some people's idea of friendliness, but not the switchboard girls'.

Of course they like their job, or else they wouldn't be there at all. And they do deserve a pat on the back for carrying on as cheerfully as they do.
